The vote for Ligon for governor is 12,886, and for Bowie 9,846; Ligon's majority 3,040.

Whyte's majority 2,532.

For lottery commissioner, Roberts 12,767; Ricaud 9,656; Roberts' majority 3,111.

For commissioner of public works, Falls 12,649; Alexander, 9,363; Falls majority 3,259.

The above comprises the State ticket, and the democratic candidates, whose majorities appear as above, are elected.

The official return from the county portion of the 3d district is not received, but it is not expected to vary from the returns as reported, which give Vansant 5,876, and Preston 5,062; Vansant's majority $14.

pected to vary from the returns as reported, which give Vansant 5,876, and Preston 5,062; Vansant's majority 814.

In the 4th district May has 6,790, and Walsh 6,441; May's majority 349.

Upon the delegate ticket, the aggregate vote is for the Main-law candidates 11,277; for the democratic candidates 10,237; Maine-law majority 1,040. By a comparison of the democratic delegate vote, with that given for Ligon, we find that the latter received 2,649 votes more than the former; in other words 2,649 persons voted for Ligon who did not vote for the democratic delegates. This fact, with the large vote given to the Maine-law candidates, induces the belief that the larger portion, if not the whole of this defective democratic vote was given to the Maine-law candidates. This 2,649 is, therefore, the democratic strength of the Maine-law at present. Allowing the same from the whig party, the Maine-law vote appears to be 5,298 in the city. Had a whig ticket been run, however, it is reasonable to suppose that some few, at least, of the democrate who voted the Maine-law ticket, would have adhered to their party nominations.

The vote for Krebs, for judge of the circuit court, is 17.112; no opposition.

For sheriff, the vote stands for Hindes, Mainlaw whig, 11,588; Hellen, democrat, 10,295; Bosley, independent, 4,579; Hinde's majority over Hellen is 1,273.

Hellen is 1,273.

For clerk of the circuit court, Turner, 12,613;

For surveyor, Chiffelle, dem., 11,190; Bouldin, ind., 11,089. Chiffelle's maj. 101. The Sad Consequences of Carelesaness.—
As the passenger train of cars between Wilmington and Charlestou, going south, approached within about eight miles of the Camden junction, one morning last week, a man with a child in his arms came rushing through the rear car, shouting "save yourselves, the cars are on fire!" The people jumped up half frantic and crowded for the door at the back end of the car. It appears that a camphene lamp that had been left burning, exploded and set fire to one of the cars, which was extinguished with a bucket of water without stopping the train. The alarm was soon over and nobody appeared to be hurt. But the serious part of the accident is yet to be told. Among the passengers in the car when the alarm was sounded, were Madame Le Vert and daughter, of Mobile, and her faithful slave "Betsy," whom Miss Bremer has made one of the heroines of her "Homes in the New World."

has made one of the heroines of her "Homes in the New World."

On resuming their seats, "Betsy" was missing. The conductor was sent for and requested by the pussengers to reverse the engine and go back a mile or two to look for the poor slave who had probably leaped from the car-when the alarm was sounded. This he refused to do, giving as a reason that he would be too late to connect at the Camden junction. He was then offered one thousand dollars to comply with the humane request of the passengers. This also he refused. On arriving at the station a gentleman promptly chartered an engine and returned to the spot where the alarm occurred; and there he found the poor woman lying beside the track, in a state of insensibility, with her body so bruised and swollen that the physician could not decide whether her bones were broken or dislocated. At the time the letter was written that we have just received from Augusta, her recovery was considered extremely gusta, her recovery was considered extremely doubtful. It strikes us that there is great blame to be attached to the conductor for his apparent indifference to the life of the poor slave; and we take it for granted we shall hear of some indignant proceedings on the part of the passengers in relation to his inhuman conduct.—N. to create a feet, and then with that fleet to beat the British fleet—work enough for a young man of twenty-seven. The American fleet was still growing on the shore of the lake. Little had been done; of the materials and stores needed, scarcely any had been provided. Not half the mechanics had arrived. Not a cannon was yet on the ground, had arrived. Not a cannon was yet on the ground, nor iron, nor cordage, nor canvas. Everything required to equip and arm a fleet had to be brought long distances over bad roads. There was not even a cartridge in the place for defence of the ship-yards. Against obstacles and difficulties, against delays and disappointments, through chagrins and mortifications, Captain Perry worked on with such rapid and intelligent energy, that by the 24th of May all his vessels were launched, two twenty-gun brigs and three gun-boats.

As an example of the zeal and courage which animated all the fleets the following anecdote is told:

animated all the fleets the following anecdote is told:

"Captain Perry now made a final inspection of his ship. Coming to some men who had been in the Constitution, he said to them: "Well, boys, are you ready?" "All ready, your honor." "But I need say nothing to you." he added; "you know how to bent those fellows." Recognizing some of his townsmen, he exclaimed, "Ah! here are the Newport boys; they'll do their duty, I warrant." Then, taking from his state room a large flag, he mounted on a gun, and calling his crew about him, he addressed them: "My brave lads, on this flag are the dying words of Captain Lawrence! Shall I hoist it?" "Ay! ay! sir." And in a moment, from the mast head of the Lawrence floated the flag, on which, in large letters, as the battle cry of the day, were inscribed the words.—"Don't give up the ship."

day, were inscribed the words,—"Don't give up the ship."

As the crews of the others caught sight of them, they sent up an enthusiastic shout. And the sick below learning the cause of the shout, many of them came up on deck to offer their feeble services; such life is there in the dying words of a hero. To one of these, on board the Lawrence, Mr. Taylor said, "Go below, Mays, you are too weak to be here." "I can do something, sir." "What can you do?" I can sound the pump, sir, and let a strong man go to the guns." He sat down by the pump, and sent the strong man to the guns; when the fight was ended, there he was from Newport; his name, Wilson Mays."

The Tragedy at Louisville .the Tragedy at Louisville.—Professor But-ler, principal of the high school, at Louisville, was shot by Matthew F. Ward, oldest son of R. J. Ward, on Wednesday morning last, and died that night. The Courier says of the lamentable trans-might. The Courier says of the lamentable transaction:

"He went to the high school accompanied by two of his brothers, Robert Ward, a youth of sixteen, and William Ward, a smaller boy, and called for Mr. Wm. H. G. Butler, one of the teachers. A few words passed between them, when Mr. Ward pulled out a pistol and shot Mr. Butler down. The ball penetrated his left breast, over the heart, and he fell to the floor, exclaiming, in his agony, I am killed—oh, my poor wife and child! Ward then dropped his pistol, and, accompanied by his brother, retreated from the school-room.

"Mr. Butler was able to rise from the floor, and left the room, assisted by some boys; but, when in the street, he fell again, and was carried home. The ball could not be extracted, and he bled inwardly. Mr. Butler had corrected William Ward, one of his pupils, the day previous, for telling a falsehood, which led to the tragic affair.

"Robert Ward, who accompanied his brother, drew a bowie-knife, and when Professor Sturgus, the other teacher in the school, advanced to the assistance of Mr. Butler, he made such demonstrations that the professor retreated and made his escape out of a window. The schoolars in the school-room were also scattered in all directions by the display of such warlike instruments in their midst.

"Mr. M. F. Ward and Robert J. Ward, ir., were

"Mr. M. F. Ward and Robert J. Ward, jr., were promptly arrested and lodged in jail; and as the affair will undergo a indicial investigation, we for bear narrating the particulars.

"Mr. Butler was one of the best and most inoffensive men in the world, and we can appreciate the anguish of his friends at his being so untimely cut off, and in such a manner. The affair is generally regarded as of a most atrocious and unprovoked character, and, when it became known, the deepest indignation prevailed throughout the city. The Ward family is one of the wealthiest and most prominent in Kentucky."

Baxter was arrested at Covington, Ky., about a year since, having in his possession $80,000 of counterfeit money. His bail was fixed at $2,000, but afterwards it was reduced to $400, the money deposited, and Baxter disappeared.

On Tuesday, the same officers arrested Josiah Davis, teller of the Forest City bank, who has since been discharged on bail. The officers published a card in which they state they suspected Davis, from information gained in Covington and Cincinnati, and accordingly arrested him for being concerned with a gang of counterfeiters, and took from him a small amount of counterfeit money. At the request of the president and cashier of the bank they examined the vault, and found a small private package marked Josiah Davis, containing time drafts and notes, and a few dollars broken bank money. It is found Davis had been in the habit of dealing in broken bank bills, unknown to the president and cashier, who would not have suffered it had they known it.

Great Traveling and Telegraphic Scheme—Among other startling announcements, that of communication between England and any part of India in ten days, has been made. It seems that the railway from Ostend to Trieste, a length of one thousand five hundred miles, will be completed within twelve months from this time. Letters, parcels and passengers will then occupy but little more than two days from the shores of the channel to those of the Adriatic; four days will take them thence to Egypt, and by aid of the railway from Alexandria to Cairo, which is now rapidly advancing, they will be within thirty-six hours afloat on the Red sea, and in twelve days afterwards be landed safely in Bombay, within three weeks of the Red sea, and in twelve days afterwards be landed safely in Bombay, within three weeks of leaving London. Within this date, the electric telegraph, now preparing to be laid across the Mediterranean, will have reached Suez, and four thousand miles of wire, which have already reached Calcutta, will connect every great town in India with the port of Bombay, so that before the year 1856 expires, London will have communication by electric telegraph in ten or eleven days' time with every part of India, and by steamer and rail in twenty-one days with Bombay.

The advices from Italy also state that the Georgia di Roma of the 4th, announces that the electric telegraph, which already extends from Rome to Bologna and Modena, is to be continued to Terracina, there to meet the Neapolitan wires; so that Naples, Rome, Bologna, and Modena will form but one uninterrupted line.—Balt. Case of Mrs. Gaines.—We have been informed by a friend of Mrs. Myra Gaines, that this lady passed through Wilmington a few days since, and told her while here, that an old gentleman who has for a long time resided in the West Indies, waited upon her (Mrs. Gaines) some time since, and said he was present when her mother was duly married to her father, Daniel Clark, of which fact he was ready to bear testimony. The lack of satisfactory proof of this fact was the sole cause of her former defeats in herefforts to recover her estate; and that upon the existence of this evidence being made to the defendant in a suit evidence being made to the defendant in a suit now pending in the Louisiana courts, he became fully satisfied of her right to recover, and therefore fully satisfied of her right to recover, and therefore offered to purchase the property at a fair equivalent, which she has accepted, since which transaction Mrs. Gaines says she has compromised with nearly all the possessors of her father's lands for a very large sum of money in the aggregate, the payment of which will soon be secured to her. If our information is correct, of which we have no reason to doubt, Mrs. Gaines, after a series of disheartening defeats, will at last obtain her patrimonial estates as the sole heir of her father, and hereafter be classed among the millionaires of America.—Wulmington (Del.) Gazette.

Sulcide.—The Pittsburgh Post of Saturday says: Yesterday morning Richard M. Duncan, a young man who has been for some time past employed as clerk in the office of the engineer of the Ohio and Pennsylvania railroad, was found dead in his room in the Emmet Hotel, in Alleghany.

The deceased had been boarding there with his wife and child, since last Tuesday. He had been in the habit of drinking freely of late, and it is supposed that he had become deranged in consequence.

chase some laudanum for him, but she refused. On the same evening he went out himself and purchased some. His wife observed him lying upon the carpet in his room about midnight, but did not think anything about the matter, as he had been in the habit of doing so for some time past. She went to bed, and when she awoke in the morning he was still there. She immediately summoned the lady and the boarders, and Dr. Elliott was called in, but it was too late; as he had breathed his last. An empty vial, which had contained laudanum, was found by his side. The deceased had formerly resided in Baltimore, where his father was a clergyman.

The State Fair.—The executive committee of the State Agricultural Society held a meeting at their office in Harrisburg last week, when it was their office in Harrisburg last week, when it was ascertained that the receipts at the exhibition held in this city amounted to $17,500—deducting $5,000 paid in premiums and other expenses, a balance will be left of $4,000, which, added to the appropriation of $2,000 by the State, and the sum in the Treasury and invested in stocks, will reach the sum of $15,000. It is contemplated by the officers of the society to use this sum for the purpose of establishing an agricultural school, and application will be made to the legislature for an act of incorporation for the purpose. It is believed by incorporation for the purpose. It is believed by the officers of the society that an institution of this kind, established upon a proper basis, could be sustained by the resources of the society.

A Virginia Artist.—We have recently had the pleasure of a visit from Alexander Galt, the young Virginia sculptor, who has been prosecuting his studies for some years past at Florence. Mr. Galt brought with him to America his latest work—a Bacchante—originally ordered by H. B. Grigsby, esq., of Norfolk, and two perfect copies of it in marble, one of which is on exhibition at the Crystal Palace in New York, while the other adorns the residence of a private gentleman in this city. It is a very admirable bust representing the beautiful reveller with tresses encircled with grape leaves, and with the joyous expression of merriment upon her lovely features. There is nothing sensual in the countenance to repel us: it is instinct with the exuberance of animal spirits, yet significant of the soul within—the face not of a dishevelled wanton, but of a merry child of dance, and wine, and song. As a work of art, we think it places its author among the first sculptors of our age and country.

There are many majestic figures yet sleeping in the quarries of Carrara, from which, we trust, Mr. Galt is destined to remove the outer covering that conceals them from the admiration of men.—

Facts for Southern men to think of.—The Lowell Mills altogether employ 8,470 females, and 4,163 males, in manufacturing goods, which are principally consumed in the southwest. Thus, the "Lowell Manufacturing Company" make, per week, 90,000 yards osnaburgs, giving employment to 500 males and 800 females. They buy the raw cotton at the south, ship it to Lowell, make it up and send it back to us again in the shape of osnaburgs; the profits of the labor, which we pay for, remaining there. Is it not wiser that we should, by giving our custom to our own manufacturing establishments, locate this productive industry, and secure this increasing wealth on our own soil!—Memphis paper.

Volunteer Association.—An adjourned meeting of the recently organized Association of the Maryland Mexican Volunteers will be held this evening, for the purpose of receiving signatures to the constitution adopted at the last meeting. We learn that the survivors of the District of Columbia company are to be affiliated as a branch association, and that communication will be opened with the several volunteer associations of other States, with a view to the formation of a national organization of Mexican volunteers. Should this object be effected, the initiation of the movement will be an honor to Maryland.—Balt. American.

He seemed to be worn out, and died in comparative ease.—Hartford Times.

There seems little reason for doubting its ability soon to meet its engagements, and protecting the bank from ultimate loss.

The Bank being an association under the general banking law, has secured its bills with the superintendent of the banking department, and the characters of the securities are such as fully to protect the bill holders. Mr. Patchiu's private estate, in connection with the general assetts of the bank, will doubtless be ample for the protection of its creditors.

HOT-AIR FURNACES.

Chilson's patent Air-warming and ventilating Furnaces, to which was awarded the World's Fair Prize Medal, at London, 1851, besides gold and silver medals, first premiums, at the recent principal fairs in this country.

This furnace was invented by Gardner Chilson, esq., of Boston, and the final improvements patented November 19th, 1850. There are four sizes, completely adapted for burning anthracite and bituminous coals or wood.

The following are some of the important improvements attained by this invention: purity of air, free from the burnt air so common to red hot iron furnaces; powerful arrangement for generating heat; economy it. Liel; great durability of furnace; not liable for repairs; perfect safety against setting buildings on fire in which they are located; may be set in low cellers, and are easily managed.
